

NORTH CAROLINA "A Good Place to Live"

Hours of Play

HILE North Carolina is a thrifty State, humming with industry and teeming with satisfied wage earners, with a goodly sprinkling of capitalists and its share of professional folk, playtime is observed by its people, high and low. The urge to play finds expression through opportunities afforded.

Through the State Department of Conservation and Development, operating under effective legislation, North Carolina has thrown a safeguard around its wild life, in order that sportsmanship may not become the privilege of a favored few, and that it may not be exploited to the hurt of the State at large.

Under the new order of things, sportsmanship has been exalted and put on a proper basis. This means that North Carolina will continue to be a playground for lovers of the gun and the rod and reel.
